Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Throughout my career I focused on broadening my global and local experience as much as possible so I may provide help to anyone who may ask for it. My diverse skill set and flexibility to adapt to many difficult situations will make me an asset to any organization I become a part of.

I began working on a farm in Vermont at a young age and after I completed my study at the University of Vermont I moved to China for the better part of three years. There I strengthened my interpersonal skills through the daily routine of stumbling through the early stages of Chinese comprehension. I helped build a local skateboard company in Shenzhen, China and quickly developed a strong community which I am still in touch with today. I moved back to the U.S. in 2015 and worked for a Chinese company for three years. At this organization I learned the importance of establishing a healthy work-life balance even when managing an overwhelming volume of tasks may seem impossible. I frequently traveled to and from China and managed both my work here in the U.S. and my work in China. After leaving that organization I pursued my Juris Doctor in the Accelerated Honors Program offered at Vermont Law School. This program required constant focus and an incredibly strong work ethic. I achieved my J.D. in just under two years and developed life-long bonds with all those in my program. During my last year at Vermont Law School I interned at an environmental law firm in Burlington and then practiced as a student clinician at the Vermont Immigrant Assistance Project. I varied my exposure to the extent available to me in order to develop a wide-sweeping and comprehensive knowledge of the legal world around me. In particular I developed a passion for client-centered representation. I have always been and will always be an advocate for those in need of assistance. From environmental and zoning issues to complex and often seemingly impossible hurdles in immigration I have always fought my hardest for the clients I worked with.

I developed a strong passion for working with the population of individuals often underrepresented due to a lack of resources. I plan to continue this work, in whatever form it may take, into the future. Because of this I have an enduring drive to apply all that I know to whatever work will bring me closer to this goal.

Law School/Year Graduated Vermont Law School 2020

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

I wish to practice law in Vermont because I fell in love with Vermont while I attended Vermont Law School. My time here has shown me that a work/life balance is certainly achievable and that the sense of community is unparalleled. During my time in law school, I sought opportunities to learn more about the community and identify ways in which I could give back. I particularly enjoyed volunteering at the Vermont Law School VITA TCE tax clinic as a volunteer tax preparer, though my time there was shortened because of the COVID pandemic. I also wished to help indigent Vermonters, which led me to choose the South Royalton Legal Clinic as my experiential opportunity. Working with my supervising attorney on the Vermont Immigration Assistance program was particularly satisfying as I saw how even the smallest interaction that a student clinician, such as myself, can have a positive lasting impact on a client's goal. Looking past the October bar exam, I wish nothing more than to set roots in Vermont and help Vermonters with their future legal needs.

Law School/Year Graduated Vermont Law School/2020

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Dear Employer,

I have a strong motivation and desire to practice law in Vermont. On my first day of law school, the President and Dean of Vermont Law School said, "There are two reasons why people typically stay in Vermont. They either fall in love with Vermont or fall in love in Vermont." Both, thankfully, happened to me.

My partner and I have made the decision to continue living in the beautiful state of Vermont. My partner currently holds the Senior Assistant Superintendent position at the Quechee Club. This is a great position for him with the potential for further advancement. We hope to remain within central Vermont, but I am willing to travel if the opportunity presents itself.

As my resume indicates, my experience primarily consists of prosecutorial experience. I really enjoyed my experience with the Office of the Vermont Attorney General and Washington County States Attorney's Office because I enjoyed being in court every day. I am interested in a litigation-based practice and open to exploring other areas beyond criminal law.

I appreciate your consideration and would welcome the opportunity to interview. My phone number is (814) 771 - 4255 and my email address is mcandrew234@gmail.com. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Respectfully,

Elizabeth McAndrew

Law School/Year Graduated Vermont Law School 2020

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Dear Hiring Manager,

My name is Kim Johnson, and I am a recent graduate of Vermont Law School. I am seeking an opportunity to sharpen my skills and gain hands-on experience as an attorney. I am currently studying for the Vermont bar exam, which was recently rescheduled for early October. Although my law school studies centered on legislation and policy work with an environmental focus, I am open-minded about diving into different areas of the law and excited to apply my experience to new challenges.

My role as Senior Managing Editor of the Vermont Law Review required excellent time management skills; strong research, writing, editing, and citation skills; and an acute attention to detail. I also gained valuable legal experience during my internships with the Office of Legislative Council at the Vermont State House and the Conservation Law Foundation. Before law school, I provided outstanding service to my clients in various roles, including fundraiser for the New England Aquarium and manager for world-class retailer Sephora.

I would be happy to chat by phone, by videoconference, or in person. I am available each week: Monday through Friday between 8:00am and 6:00pm.

Thank you so much,

Kimberly E. Johnson

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Greetings,

I am currently working part-time as a pre-trial services coordinator and Youth Substance Abuse Safety Coordinator in Orange county. This is a job I intend to maintain to serve and give back to the central Vermont community.

I am interested in working part-time, or a contract basis, with a lawyer in general practice, bankruptcy, or litigation firm. Ideally, we can work together somewhere within 45 minutes of Randolph, VT.

I would not mind helping on pro bono cases in exchange for professional mentorship. My application is in with the incubator program for new lawyers and I appreciate learning from legal veterans.

I look forward to working, or forming a professional relationship, with you.

Respectfully,
Harrison Drapo

Law School/Year Graduated	Lewis & Clark Law School / 2020

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

I am excited to work protecting the environment and human rights as an attorney. As a native Vermonter, born and raised in Rutland, I have been working to protect the people of Vermont since my time at the University of Vermont (UVM). As a college intern with Senator Bernie Sanders I learned how important bold policy changes are for the future of our country. As a senior at UVM, I worked on passing a consumer protection bill in the Vermont State House that was modeled after California's Safe Cosmetics Bill. I am passionate about environmental protection and human rights.

I have spent the last three years acquiring certificates in International Law and Environmental Law at Lewis and Clark Law School. I focused on human rights in both an international and environmental law context. During law school, I spent time working with a professor to create a Prosecutors Manual for Wildlife Crimes in Angola. I was inspired by this project and based my final paper for law school on the idea of helping judges and prosecutors better use the laws available to them to serve the public interest. For my final paper, I wrote a Bench Guide to Assist Victims of Sex Trafficking for federal, state, county, and district judicial officers because one currently does not exist. I am currently in the process of circulating it with judges in Oregon and California.

At Lewis & Clark Law School as a member of the Northwest Environmental Defense Center, I lead a group of students to petition the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality to designate Waldo Lake and Bull Run River as Outstanding Resource Waters, which would offer the bodies of water greater protection from pollution. The Waldo Lake petition is expected to become law by November 2020. Additionally, I completed an externship with Sea Shepherd Legal where I wrote a legislative assessment to see how well Gabon's laws protect the Atlantic Humpback Dolphin. I am adaptable, independent, detail oriented, and I work well on a team. I strive for perfection in my work and I am great at communication and receiving feedback.

My enthusiasm for human rights law solidified between undergrad and law school during my seven years working as an international outdoor educator. While taking high school students on community service trips around the world I witnessed a variety of environmental and human rights abuses. Through a company called ARCC Programs I lead over 16 trips on six different continents where I both saw and experienced a variety of human and environmental rights issues. I witnessed sex trafficking in Cambodia, Agent Orange poisoning in Vietnam, installed solar panels in homes that never had access to electricity in Kenya, and cared for the last remaining 17 rhinos in Uganda. During my international travels, I also saw gold mining in the Amazon, helped build storm walls to protect small islands in Fiji from climate change, and saw the Great Barrier Reef dying. Each of these experiences allowed my worldview to expand exponentially from the work I had done to protect Vermonters. Today, I want to change policies that affect people around the world.

I am passionate, motivated, dedicated, and determined to make the world a better place. I am a natural born leader, who is great at seeing the big picture and generating solutions that would be good policy in the long term. I would love to join a team of attorneys and people who do public interest environmental law and/ or human rights law. I have always been a social justice advocate and my time abroad solidified my commitment to helping the most vulnerable people. I care about immigrants' rights, women's rights, minorities rights, LGBTQA rights, environmental justice, food security and food safety, climate change, consumer protection, and affordable healthcare for all. My dream job would be working for a nonprofit to do public interest work to defend both human rights and the right to a clean and safe environment.

Law School/Year Graduated	2020

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

I am a 2020 Vermont Law School graduate, with strong research and writing skills, and a genuine interest in using my diverse background as a trial lawyer in Vermont. After working for over a decade in coffee quality analysis, I entered law school intending to pursue a career that integrates my education and experience in analysis with my law school studies, potentially in the area of criminal, family and juvenile law.

I am a passionate advocate in ensuring that all people in need of legal assistance are taken seriously, that their rights are respected and their views and wishes genuinely considered when decisions are being made about their lives. I have a strong analytical background, prior experience in interviewing clients at criminal, family and corporate law offices and have worked at a Vermont Public Defenders office and State's Attorney's office. Through my experience in both coffee quality analysis and sensory research, I have had the opportunity to advise various members in the coffee community from farmers to corporate clients regarding the most appropriate and efficient techniques to apply to improve strategy, quality and efficiency to meet their goals.

My education includes a B.A. in Political Science, Paralegal Certificate and of course, the J.D. I earned at Vermont Law School, through the Accelerated Honors program. My education and prior career experience make me professionally qualified to assume the responsibilities of entering the legal profession. I work efficiently and I am happy to work in any area of law. Geography is not a concern, nor must the work be glamorous. I am grateful for any projects that involve trial preparation or increase my litigation knowledge in any manner.

Please find my resume below. I am eager to begin applying my background and experience to the legal field and would welcome the opportunity to discuss my qualifications with you.

Thank you for your consideration,

Debby R. Pakbaz

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Respectively addressed,

I transitioned to the field of counseling psychology from law when circumstances compelled me to declare a doubt on a client's capacity to assist me with her defense. I wondered if I might not be of better use to her were I addressing the issues that precipitated her criminal involvement rather than seemingly keeping her on the hamster wheel of the criminal justice system.

Now, six years later, I aspire to return to the practice of law. Presently, I am a Recovery Services Clinician at the Vermont Psychiatric Care Hospital, but owing to COVID-19, have been required to work remotely since March 2020. The quarantine has provided me with the time and space to contemplate my professional satisfaction and ambition, and the first obvious measure, I reckoned, was to finally sit for and be admitted to the bar; to finally complete what I felt I'd left undone.

Re-immersing myself in the study of the law, preparing for the bar exam, confirmed my suspicion: I require a career of intellectual rigor, advocacy, and action. Counseling psychology is by no means a field devoid of intellectual rigor or advocacy, but the helplessness I felt when I declared a doubt is a pittance relative to that which I experience, now.

The areas of law towards which I am drawn are those wherein my education and training in counseling psychology would be immediately relevant, however, I do not think there's an area that would not benefit from a counselor-at-law trained in the arts of validating, listening, and empathizing.

I welcome opportunities to discuss my experiences, credentials, and whether I might prove a good fit for a job opening.

Kindly,

Claire E. Burns
