Law School/Year Graduated Vermont Law School/2020

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Dear Employer,

I have a strong motivation and desire to practice law in Vermont. On my first day of law school, the President and Dean of Vermont Law School said, "There are two reasons why people typically stay in Vermont. They either fall in love with Vermont or fall in love in Vermont." Both, thankfully, happened to me.

My partner and I have made the decision to continue living in the beautiful state of Vermont. My partner currently holds the Senior Assistant Superintendent position at the Quechee Club. This is a great position for him with the potential for further advancement. We hope to remain within central Vermont, but I am willing to travel if the opportunity presents itself.

As my resume indicates, my experience primarily consists of prosecutorial experience. I really enjoyed my experience with the Office of the Vermont Attorney General and Washington County States Attorney's Office because I enjoyed being in court every day. I am interested in a litigation-based practice and open to exploring other areas beyond criminal law.

I appreciate your consideration and would welcome the opportunity to interview. My phone number is (814) 771 - 4255 and my email address is mcandrew234@gmail.com. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Respectfully,

Elizabeth McAndrew

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Greetings,

I am currently working part-time as a pre-trial services coordinator and Youth Substance Abuse Safety Coordinator in Orange county. This is a job I intend to maintain to serve and give back to the central Vermont community.

I am interested in working part-time, or a contract basis, with a lawyer in general practice, bankruptcy, or litigation firm. Ideally, we can work together somewhere within 45 minutes of Randolph, VT.

I would not mind helping on pro bono cases in exchange for professional mentorship. My application is in with the incubator program for new lawyers and I appreciate learning from legal veterans.

I look forward to working, or forming a professional relationship, with you.

Respectfully,
Harrison Drapo

Law School/Year Graduated	Lewis & Clark Law School / 2020

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

I am excited to work protecting the environment and human rights as an attorney. As a native Vermonter, born and raised in Rutland, I have been working to protect the people of Vermont since my time at the University of Vermont (UVM). As a college intern with Senator Bernie Sanders I learned how important bold policy changes are for the future of our country. As a senior at UVM, I worked on passing a consumer protection bill in the Vermont State House that was modeled after California's Safe Cosmetics Bill. I am passionate about environmental protection and human rights.

I have spent the last three years acquiring certificates in International Law and Environmental Law at Lewis and Clark Law School. I focused on human rights in both an international and environmental law context. During law school, I spent time working with a professor to create a Prosecutors Manual for Wildlife Crimes in Angola. I was inspired by this project and based my final paper for law school on the idea of helping judges and prosecutors better use the laws available to them to serve the public interest. For my final paper, I wrote a Bench Guide to Assist Victims of Sex Trafficking for federal, state, county, and district judicial officers because one currently does not exist. I am currently in the process of circulating it with judges in Oregon and California.

At Lewis & Clark Law School as a member of the Northwest Environmental Defense Center, I lead a group of students to petition the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality to designate Waldo Lake and Bull Run River as Outstanding Resource Waters, which would offer the bodies of water greater protection from pollution. The Waldo Lake petition is expected to become law by November 2020. Additionally, I completed an externship with Sea Shepherd Legal where I wrote a legislative assessment to see how well Gabon's laws protect the Atlantic Humpback Dolphin. I am adaptable, independent, detail oriented, and I work well on a team. I strive for perfection in my work and I am great at communication and receiving feedback.

My enthusiasm for human rights law solidified between undergrad and law school during my seven years working as an international outdoor educator. While taking high school students on community service trips around the world I witnessed a variety of environmental and human rights abuses. Through a company called ARCC Programs I lead over 16 trips on six different continents where I both saw and experienced a variety of human and environmental rights issues. I witnessed sex trafficking in Cambodia, Agent Orange poisoning in Vietnam, installed solar panels in homes that never had access to electricity in Kenya, and cared for the last remaining 17 rhinos in Uganda. During my international travels, I also saw gold mining in the Amazon, helped build storm walls to protect small islands in Fiji from climate change, and saw the Great Barrier Reef dying. Each of these experiences allowed my worldview to expand exponentially from the work I had done to protect Vermonters. Today, I want to change policies that affect people around the world.

I am passionate, motivated, dedicated, and determined to make the world a better place. I am a natural born leader, who is great at seeing the big picture and generating solutions that would be good policy in the long term. I would love to join a team of attorneys and people who do public interest environmental law and/ or human rights law. I have always been a social justice advocate and my time abroad solidified my commitment to helping the most vulnerable people. I care about immigrants' rights, women's rights, minorities rights, LGBTQA rights, environmental justice, food security and food safety, climate change, consumer protection, and affordable healthcare for all. My dream job would be working for a nonprofit to do public interest work to defend both human rights and the right to a clean and safe environment.

Law School/Year Graduated	2020

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

I am a 2020 Vermont Law School graduate, with strong research and writing skills, and a genuine interest in using my diverse background as a trial lawyer in Vermont. After working for over a decade in coffee quality analysis, I entered law school intending to pursue a career that integrates my education and experience in analysis with my law school studies, potentially in the area of criminal, family and juvenile law.

I am a passionate advocate in ensuring that all people in need of legal assistance are taken seriously, that their rights are respected and their views and wishes genuinely considered when decisions are being made about their lives. I have a strong analytical background, prior experience in interviewing clients at criminal, family and corporate law offices and have worked at a Vermont Public Defenders office and State's Attorney's office. Through my experience in both coffee quality analysis and sensory research, I have had the opportunity to advise various members in the coffee community from farmers to corporate clients regarding the most appropriate and efficient techniques to apply to improve strategy, quality and efficiency to meet their goals.

My education includes a B.A. in Political Science, Paralegal Certificate and of course, the J.D. I earned at Vermont Law School, through the Accelerated Honors program. My education and prior career experience make me professionally qualified to assume the responsibilities of entering the legal profession. I work efficiently and I am happy to work in any area of law. Geography is not a concern, nor must the work be glamorous. I am grateful for any projects that involve trial preparation or increase my litigation knowledge in any manner.

Please find my resume below. I am eager to begin applying my background and experience to the legal field and would welcome the opportunity to discuss my qualifications with you.

Thank you for your consideration,

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Respectively addressed,

I transitioned to the field of counseling psychology from law when circumstances compelled me to declare a doubt on a client's capacity to assist me with her defense. I wondered if I might not be of better use to her were I addressing the issues that precipitated her criminal involvement rather than seemingly keeping her on the hamster wheel of the criminal justice system.

Now, six years later, I aspire to return to the practice of law. Presently, I am a Recovery Services Clinician at the Vermont Psychiatric Care Hospital, but owing to COVID-19, have been required to work remotely since March 2020. The quarantine has provided me with the time and space to contemplate my professional satisfaction and ambition, and the first obvious measure, I reckoned, was to finally sit for and be admitted to the bar; to finally complete what I felt I'd left undone.

Re-immersing myself in the study of the law, preparing for the bar exam, confirmed my suspicion: I require a career of intellectual rigor, advocacy, and action. Counseling psychology is by no means a field devoid of intellectual rigor or advocacy, but the helplessness I felt when I declared a doubt is a pittance relative to that which I experience, now.

The areas of law towards which I am drawn are those wherein my education and training in counseling psychology would be immediately relevant, however, I do not think there's an area that would not benefit from a counselor-at-law trained in the arts of validating, listening, and empathizing.

I welcome opportunities to discuss my experiences, credentials, and whether I might prove a good fit for a job opening.

Kindly,

Claire E. Burns

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

For the past six years, I have lived in Vermont and continued to fall in love with the people, community, and environment. I was in 6th grade when I decided I was going to be an environmental lawyer. My passion to protect the planet and our people drove me to the University of Vermont where I felt I could cultivate my interests in the environment, agriculture, and human health. After exploring Vermont and getting to know the people, I quickly decided to study agriculture policy so I could help bridge the gap between farmers and environmentalists. Ultimately, this led me to Vermont Law School where I broadened my legal interests. I realized my desire to protect the environment and agriculture stemmed from my desire to defend those facing injustice. While I hope to pursue a career in criminal defense to protect Vermont's constituents, I found a new appreciation for wills and trusts to help our farmers ensure the longevity of their land.

Law School/Year Graduated	2021

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

I am a current third-year student at Mitchell Hamline School of Law and would like to be considered for employment within Vermont. In preparing to seek legal employment within Vermont, I have dedicated myself to the development of my legal writing, research, and advocacy skills through work experience and community service.

Throughout the last year, I have been an active member of the Twin Cities community, volunteering primarily for the MN Watch Program. Each week I monitor and take notes on Ramsey County court cases which are then used to make policy recommendations to the Minnesota judicial system. This work required me to organize and balance multiple scheduled court cases, sometimes at the same time, as well as communicate effectively with other volunteers and program coordinators.

Furthermore, as an intern with the Bloomington City Attorney's Office, I continued to learn the importance of interpersonal communication and interacted with a diverse group of people while doing so. I was responsible for researching a variety of legal issues and completed tasks that required planning, and leadership. The wide variety of work that I would perform helped me become a more adaptive individual who could handle any task that came before me. In addition to this, it also gave me the confidence to exceed in my future legal work.

Most recently, I have spent my time working as an intern for the Office of the Principal Legal Advisor, the entity responsible for legal enforcement of federal immigration law within Immigration and Customs Enforcement and the Department of Homeland Security. By representing the United States government in removal proceedings before the Fort Snelling Immigration Court, I have been able to advance my trial advocacy skills. Additionally, working within the complex field of immigration law has helped further my legal research skills and provided me with a working knowledge of the complexities of immigration law.

As an active member of my community, with relevant experience, I believe I am qualified for entry-level legal employment within the state of Vermont and am excited to be in consideration for a position. If you would like to further discuss my qualifications or have any other questions please contact me by phone or email. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Dear members of the VBA,

My name is Lauren Mabie, and I am a student at Vermont Law School. I am about to enter my final semester in VLS' accelerated JD program (2 year program). This February, I will take the 5th semester Bar, and then finish up my studies afterwards. As of mid-May (assuming I pass the Bar) I will be ready to work.

Thank you in advance for considering whether my interests and skills might align with a position at your firm. I am most interested in criminal and family law, but am also open to practicing in other areas of law. As a law student, I have worked tirelessly to gain the knowledge, research and writing skills that are so crucial to being a great lawyer. Therefore, I look forward to formally joining the profession.

The main strengths I would bring to your firm are that I am ambitious, a hard worker and am willing to learn. I spent four years in the Army before coming to law school so I am also mature. That maturity allows me to manage myself and work independently when needed. On the other hand, when given feedback and guidance, I am eager to incorporate it and improve. I am also ready to gain courtroom experience and build the skills I need to be a successful litigator. Finally, I am a dedicated community member and could therefore bring business to your firm.

Finally, here are a few fun facts about me. First, I am a group fitness instructor, and currently teach virtual Boot Camp classes to members of the VLS community. I love exercising, and am passionate about good mental health. Second, my favorite courses in law school were evidence and civil procedure. I look forward to applying my knowledge of the FRoE in the courtroom. Finally, I grew up here in Vermont (in Brattleboro) and plan to stay here my whole legal career.

If you have any questions for me, I am happy to answer them. Thank you.

Law School/Year Graduated	University of Wisconsin Law School/2021

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Dear Hiring Manager:

I am a rising 3L at the University of Wisconsin law school writing to express my interest in an attorney position in Vermont after I graduate on May 8, 2021. I want to practice business litigation and I know I can have a good opportunity to do that in Vermont.

Even though I am still in Law School, I have had significant researching legal issues in business law. Last Spring, I wrote a brief for the Kaufman Securities Moot Court Competition which dealt with primary liability for ADR securities. In my International Commercial Arbitration class, I wrote a brief arguing that regardless of an expert witness' importance to a case, if the expert has a conflict of interest with an arbitrator, appointing the expert witness during a commercial dispute would violate the principles of the London Court of International Arbitration. This past summer, I wrote about how COVID-19 changed virtual shareholder meetings and how corporate boards took advantage of the situation to limit dissent. I hope to use these research and writing skills to assist my clients on a variety of legal needs.

After my 1L year, I worked at the O'Neill law firm where I assisted in variety of matters, including bankruptcy and family law. Specifically, I assisted in a custody dispute which required sharp analytical skills and the ability to think quickly under pressure - skills I hope to bring to your firm and its clients.

Last spring, I was part of the Law and Entrepreneurship Clinic at UW. In this program, I provided free legal services to startup businesses in Wisconsin. I drafted a variety of documents for my clients including a website terms of service agreement, a website privacy policy, and a non-disclosure agreement for employees and contractors. I also gave advice on the type of business entity each company should form and performed trademark searches.

My ability to synthesize complicated business concepts coupled with my substantive legal experiences make me a strong candidate for this position. Thank you for your consideration and I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Samuel Ross

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

To whom it may concern:

I am interested in practicing law in Vermont to help upcoming artists, musicians, and creators as an Intellectual Property Attorney. The law struggles to safeguard the creative community and I want to work for the creators to protect their exclusive and supplemental rights to their work.

My passion for music and entertainment, and coursework at New England Law| Boston gives me the fundamental skills to be successful. I believe that Vermont would be a great place to expand my knowledge and practice of IP law in industries I have not previously experienced such as: cannabis, winter sports, and organic foods. I am originally from Baton Rouge, LA and have made the New England area a second home. Vermont could be my next adventure in the northeast.

I appreciate your time and consideration for a role within your practice.

Law School/Year Graduated	Rutgers Law School/ May 2021

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

I am a third-year law student at Rutgers Law School and am seeking a full-time position after graduating this May 2021.

Throughout law school, moot court asides, I was on record for three separate occasions. I have successfully represented my clients in three different tribunals in a motion to dismiss, an evidentiary hearing, and a removal proceeding. These experiences allowed me to learn subject matters at the speed of relevance with minimal supervision. In the Air Force JAG Corps, I assisted in responding to various motions in court-martials. I've learned to work faster and accurately at the speed of relevance due to the fast-paced nature of court-martials. Last semester, as an extern in the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas, I had opportunities to watch trials, pre-trial motion hearings, and voir dire. During my 2L year in the Immigration clinic, we were able to successfully stay our client's administrative proceeding in the immigration court while the immigration officer adjudicates our client's asylum hearing. Because of these experiences, I learned to efficiently resolve various pre-trial issues at the speed of relevance, communicate effectively, and work well in groups.

Before law school, while working as a risk manager at Assured Financial Services, I used my financial and analytical skills to improve the company's internal process management. By implementing new policies and performing internal audits, I reduced turnaround time, increased productivity, and reduced unnecessary loss of profit from processing errors occurring in title production. Therefore, I can understand problems holistically and accurately; I can provide potential clients with a competent assessment while understanding their point of view at the speed of relevance.

In sum, I believe my work experiences--during and before law school--will be an asset. Thank you in advance for your time and consideration.

Law School/Year Graduated	Temple University Beasley School of Law - 2020

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

I graduated in May 2020 from Temple University Beasley School of Law with a Juris Doctorate degree. I passed the bar exam in New Jersey in October, with a score portable to Vermont. I am in the process of applying for admission to the Vermont bar.

I have had family in Vermont my whole life and always hoped to relocate to Vermont. The natural beauty and small-town feel of Vermont make it the ideal place to build my legal career and future family.

I am currently seeking a challenging career opportunity as an associate attorney. I am eager to contribute meaningfully to a law firm while strengthening my existing skills in legal research, writing, and oral advocacy. I have diverse legal interests and am a quick learner.

Law School/Year Graduated	Loyola University Chicago School of Law

Please provide a brief letter of interest regarding your desire to practice law in Vermont.

Having traveled, lived, and worked in many states and countries, Vermont is place that holds a special place in my heart. I met my husband while working at a summer camp in the area and spent many days off exploring the mountains and towns of Vermont. During those years, I fell in love with the people, ideas, and landscape of Vermont.

Many years after my time in Vermont, I was living in South Korea when I decided to return to the U.S. to attend law school. In planning the move back to the U.S., my husband and I considered moving to Vermont. Ultimately, I chose to attend Loyola University Chicago School of Law, in Chicago, IL, after I was offered a scholarship opportunity to be a ChildLaw Fellow. While my husband and I considered other states for future residence throughout my time in law school, Vermont remained a place we heavily considered.

Upon graduating in 2020, I realized life as we previously knew it had changed. The prolonged pandemic made my husband and I take a hard look at what we wanted our life to look like going forward. It made me consider where I wanted to build my career professionally and where we wanted to raise our family long-term.

It hardly needs to be said that Vermont's natural beauty is a reason I, like many, am drawn to Vermont. In my future time off, I look forward to teaching my son to snowboard during the winter months and to hiking as a family in the summer. I look forward to the starry skies and changing of the seasons.

But while the Vermont landscape is one reason why I want to practice law in Vermont, it is not the only one. I am also drawn to Vermont due to my desire to be a part of the legal community and greater community there. Vermont's leadership in the face of the pandemic is reflective of the community-based outlook the state, its citizens, and its attorneys have. The state's progressive approach to justice and community reflects an understanding that change is incremental and demands work and compromise. I believe that, in this type of community, I can be an effective attorney that collaborates with other practitioners to create meaningful change for the good of the people of the state. Regardless of what type of law I end up practicing in Vermont, I look forward to being a part of a community that is collaborative, socially driven, and united.
